A Note from WhenWine

2026 Wine List · Presented by Mengyu Sun, DipWSET

Time flies! 2026 marks the fifth year of my annual wine list, and what a busy year it has been.

A change in my day job has made daytime tastings and masterclasses much harder to attend. As a result, I've become more selective and strategic about trade events, while staying open-minded about what I taste. I also continue to teach WSET Levels 1 and 2 at the International Wine Center.

Rather than trying to cover everything, I've devoted more time to the wine regions that particularly interest me, as well as to learning about wine collecting and investment. This list reflects that shift: a personal selection of bottles that offer pleasure, value, discovery, or a memorable story.

How to Read This List

Wines are grouped into four styles: White (including rosé and amber wines), Sparkling, Red, and Fortified & Dessert. Within these, look for the following price and editorial categories:

01
Amazing Value
Under $30
Excellent quality without breaking the bank.

02
Just Enjoy
$30–$75
Approachable bottles for a great dinner, a gathering with friends, or simply a good glass of wine.

03
Fancy
$75–$200
Wines with extra depth, complexity, concentration, or length—often suitable for collecting and aging.

04
Special Occasion
Over $200
Standout bottles worth celebrating, sometimes available through specialist retailers or fine-dining wine lists.

05
A Whole New World
Exceptional experiences
Rare, mature, and remarkable wines I encountered in 2026—often more accessible through auctions and fine dining than ordinary retail.

Drink Now or Save for Later?

My drinking recommendations offer a practical guide to each wine's potential to evolve in bottle:

Drink
Enjoy now. Additional cellaring is unlikely to improve the wine meaningfully.

Drink / Hold
Delicious today, with the structure and potential to develop further over the next few years.

Hold
Still youthful; consider giving the wine more time in the cellar before opening.

These are personal, indicative recommendations—not guarantees. Bottle condition, storage, vintage variation, and individual taste all matter. Prices are broad US retail reference bands, not live quotes.

Most wines are made to be enjoyed young. You don't need a cellar full of bold, tannic, age-worthy bottles to have a wonderful wine experience. Choose what you love, explore something new, and enjoy the journey.
